Don't let your relay rack become an unmanageable web of wires; instead, start with this cable management panel to keep excess cable from creating clutter. This panel provides a trough where excess cable can be stored. Patch cords can be easily coiled and placed inside the panel, and the connector can be threaded through the flexible plastic "fingers" to patch panels or network electronics installed above or below. Finally, keep your rack neat with cable management products from C2G, formerly Cables To Go. Easy to install with this space-saving design.
